The story so far...

The Bugatti Trust was formed in 1987 by the late Hugh Conway supported by a small group of Bugatti enthusiasts. An internationally acknowledged Bugatti expert, Hugh Conway had a remarkable collection of historic photographs, drawings, letters and articles which formed the original basis of the Bugatti Trust archive and has been vastly added to over the last 30 years. The overall aim of the charitable trust is to promote the works of Ettore Bugatti and to raise awareness of the importance of aesthetics and integrated design in engineering.

The Bugatti Trust's objective to preserve and make available for study the works of Ettore Bugatti is supported by an active digitisation programme for the historic archives and on-going academic research by local volunteers, visiting experts and enthusiasts from around the world.

Annual membership of the Bugatti Trust is £44 and offers free year-round admission, invitations to special members' events, preferential rates for photographs and drawings as well as regular newsletters and e-bulletins. Contributions, donations and legacies received allow the Bugatti Trust to support an active STEM educational outreach programme. In 2016 the Trust was able to support Bath University's Formula Student Team, Team Virus Robotics, Coventry University's design and engineering students, the Misha Black awards and local science events.
